NAVOCEANO injunction lifted

Navy transfer gets court o.k.

By DAN BARBER
AND CAROLE LANGE

WASHINGTON, D.C. — U.S. District Court Judge Gerhard A. Gesell Tuesday vacated and dismissed combined suits challenging the transfer of the Navy's National Oceanographic Office from Suitland, Md. to National Space Technology Laboratories in Hancock County.

In lifting a temporary injunction issued by himself last Dec. 5 barring the transfer until the Navy prepared an amended environmental impact statement, Gesell said the fact the move may have bad effects "is really beside the point."

Gesell ruled that the Navy's six-volume environmental impact statement satisfied requirements of the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA).

The suits challenging the Navy's right to move its 1,300 employee National Oceanographic Office from the Washington, D. C. area were brought by Prince Georges County, Md., where the office is now located and by workers at the Oceanographic Office who were not in favor of the move.

The court had required that the Navy resubmit its amended Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) for a personal review by Secretary of Defense Donald Rumsfeld. Rumsfeld's recommendation to the court on the move was highly favorable.

Congressman Trent Lott (R-Miss.) said following Gesell's action Tuesday that it appeared the long anticipated transfer of the 1,300 employee Navy Scientific department had cleared its last major hurdle.

"It looks real good to us right now," Lott said Tuesday.

"Of course," he continued, "the plaintiffs in the suit do have an appeal procedure they can follow if they so desire."

"I guess," Lott said, "that the judge just looked at the amended EIS and the recommendation of the Secretary (Rumsfeld) and decided there really was no grounds for the suit."

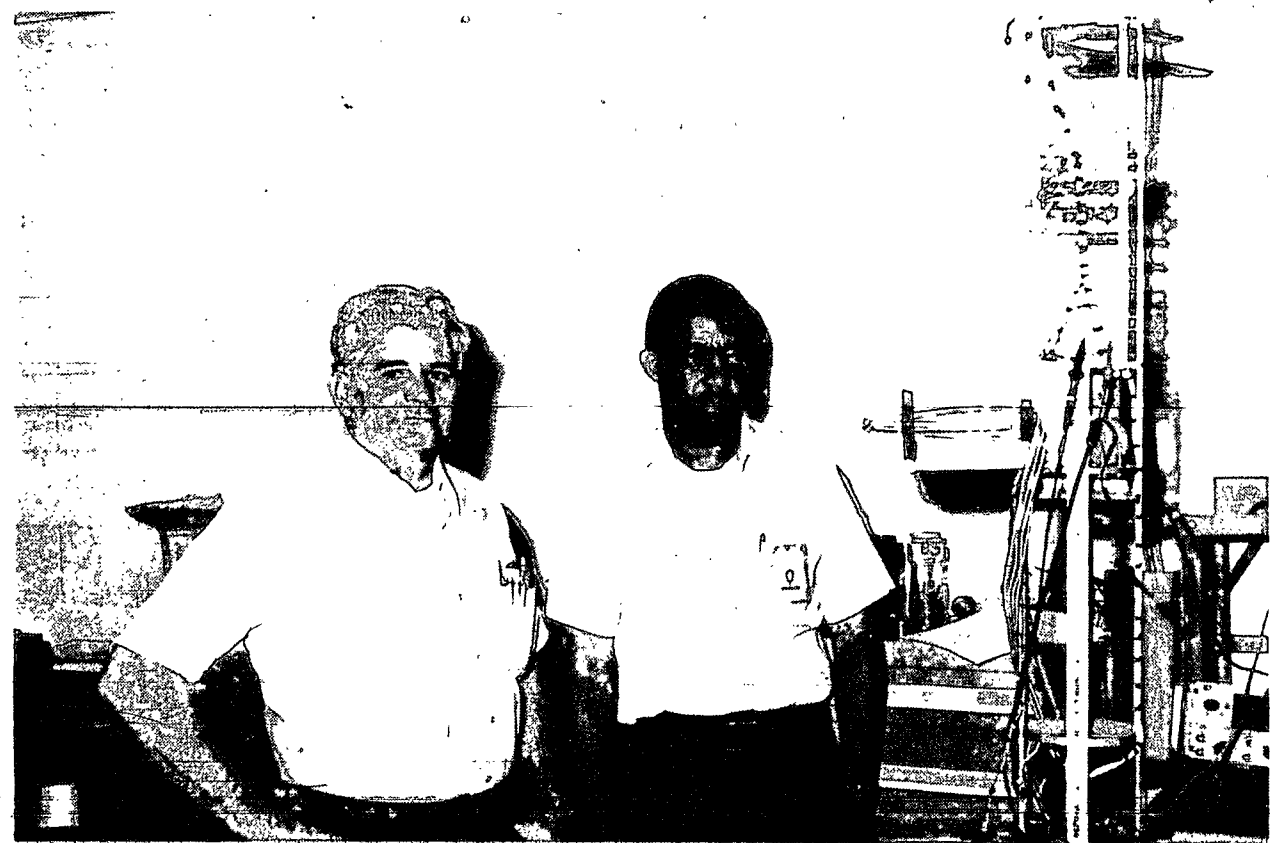

State Senator Martin Smith said that he was very pleased by the turn of events.

"A lot of credit for this goes to Senator John Stennis and Congressman Trent Lott," Smith said.

A spokesman for Gesell said that the ruling means the Navy can presently transfer anyone it so desires that is connected with the NAVOCEANO office.

Persons not wanting to transfer, the spokesman continued, will be placed on priority lists for jobs in other governmental departments.

The spokesman, who asked to remain anonymous, said the transfer would be completed by June 1.

Persistent pluckers endanger some plant species

Plant collectors are a strange, determined breed of people.

In the past, according to the current (April-May) issue of "National Wildlife" magazine, they have suffered plague, attacks by mad buffalo, and malaria to bring such exotic plants as wisteria, forsythia, and azaleas to America.

Now, the National Wildlife Federation bimonthly publication reports, their persistent plucking of rare specimens is forcing some indigenous American plants onto the U.S. endangered species list.

As a result of their plucking, plus other pressures, more than 3,000 of some 22,000 native American plant species are endangered, threatened, or extinct in the wild, the magazine says, and 77 rare species, including the giant fawn lily and the Nevada primrose, are listed as "commercially exploited."

Most of the scarce plants are dying out because their habitats are being destroyed to make way for farms, strip mines, houses, highways, and other developments. But plant collectors, private and commercial, are also taking a heavy toll, and they are digging up the very species, such as insect-eating Venus flytrap, that are most imperiled.

Commercial collectors are the worst kind, according to "National Wildlife." They sometimes dig up whole acres of cacti in one swoop. One recently dug up more than 700,000 rattlesnake orchids in Tennessee to feature in the mail-order terrariums he was selling.

But private collectors, like tourists bussed into the Everglades on orchid-picking tours and picnickers plundering public parks, are also a menace to the nation's shrinking stock of plant life. While rationalizing that "one small plant will not be missed," individual collectors can cause "a surprisingly large decimation" of such rare plants as the ram's head lily's slipper or the leathery grape fern.

Once plant predators decide they want a rare specimen, "almost nothing can stop them," "National Wildlife" observes. As a result, "the sites of obscure plants are guarded by their discoverers almost like state secrets," and in England "maps marking the locales of endangered species are kept in a locked safe."

Only a few states have laws protecting wild plants. In New York's Catskills it is illegal to pick gold and pink twinflowers. In South Carolina plucking the sea oat is forbidden because it stabilizes sand dunes and in North Carolina the Venus flytrap is protected. Arizona has "cactus cops" to enforce its plant-poaching laws, which provide for both fines and jail sentences.

Most plant pickers who evade the laws are frustrated, in the end, because the specimens they pick do not survive in a new environment. Some orchids, for example, are so attuned to their habitat that they cannot even be transplanted from one woods to another, according to the "National Wildlife" report.

What can be done to save endangered, vulnerable plants?

"National Wildlife" recommends four courses of action to NWF members: Exercise self-restraint; study the endangered lists, then, if in doubt about varieties, "stick to roadside daisies and Queen Anne's lace."

Shame the owners of endangered plants dug from the wild with "an appeal to reason and conscience."

Don't patronize florists or nurserymen who take listed species from the fields.

At garden shows, ban the display or arrangements that include prohibited species; give preference to seed-grown exhibits.

In addition to these voluntary actions, the magazine cites several legislative steps that might be taken. Both the states and the federal government could tighten their laws to cut down the "taking" of rare plants. (The U.S. Endangered Species Act of 1973 applies to plants only when interstate commerce is involved.) Also, the government could establish plant preserves, similar to wildlife refuges, where plucking and digging would be prohibited. A Smithsonian Institution rare plant report recommended this move last year.

In the meantime, according to one expert quoted by "National Wildlife" some American plants are so rare that "they could be made extinct in minutes."

Once some of these people want something, almost nothing can stop them

NASA funding cut threatens county industry

A survey study on Pearl River Basin Development, being undertaken by the Mobile District, Corps of Engineers, has been amended to include Little Lake maintenance dredging from the Rigolets to East Pearl River.

Previously a Title 107, Rivers and Harbor Act, Continuing Authority Program study item, the re-allocation was made following federal budget slashes that killed all new and proposed schemes under the act - including Bayou Cadet.

The Corps was originally requested to

Lakeshore man charged following

A 31-year-old Lakeshore man was being held in Hancock County Jail this week on $5,000 bond on charges of assault and battery with intent to kill following a knife attack on another man last Friday night at the Country Barn Lounge on U. S. Highway 90.

Hancock Sheriff Sylvan Ladner said a preliminary hearing for Charlie Cox was scheduled for tonight before Justice of the Peace Horatio Frierson.

According to the sheriff's office Wayne Ladner, 24, of 417 State Street, Bay St. Louis was stabbed twice, once in the side and once in the leg, during an argument with Cox at the nightspot.

Ladner was taken by Mobile Medic to Hancock General Hospital where he was treated and released Monday.

assume maintenance responsibility cost for the 12 foot channel across Little Lake by Hancock County when NASA recently withdrew its funding authorization. This authorization had been in effect for the past decade but reduced load requirements to the former Saturn V Mississippi Test Facility - now the National Space Technology Laboratories (NSTL) - coupled to budget cuts, apparently resulted in the space agency's change of heart.

Wilson Wehre, port director, Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission, said this week that he was in direct touch with the Corps' district engineer at Mobile, Col. Drake Wilson, in connection with both the study and its timetable.

Wilson emphasized the importance of the channel to existing and potential industries at Port Blenville.

"We are exerting every effort to keep this channel open at 12 feet," Wehre said Tuesday.

The port director said public funds at both federal and county levels are involved in the port's development, an important factor in negotiations.

"We are concerned about the Little Lake channel and the Intercoastal Canal maintenance programs."

"Both projects are a must for this county's continued development."

"Since the authority of the Corps to maintain the Little Lake channel at 12 feet was withdrawn by NASA we have been exploring all avenues and exerting

Fishing rodeo, balloon race highlight Coast July 4 salute

While many of America's cities and towns are planning solemn and historic events to mark the nation's 200th birthday, the historic Mississippi Gulf Coast will have a party that doesn't promise anything but good old fashioned birthday fun.

Plans for the July 4th weekend include the World's Largest Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo, the Great Gulf of Mexico Balloon Race, a beach Sand Sculpture Contest, a contest to pick Miss Bikini Beach and many other events during the four-day weekend.

The Great Gulf of Mexico Balloon Race will attract professional hot air balloonists from all parts of the nation. They will race from Ship Island to the Coast mainland. Promoters say this is only the second balloon race to be held over water.

Balloonists are scheduled to arrive on the Coast for a practice session on Friday, July 2, and promoters are expecting a large number of the massive balloons to take part. A number of Coast financial institutions will sponsor the race, which they hope will become an annual attraction.

Gulf Publishing Company will sponsor the Sand Sculpture Contest. Colleges and universities in the middle south are being invited to enter teams. First prize for the winning five-man team will be a Windjammer Cruise of the Caribbean. Second prize will be a week's vacation on the Mississippi Gulf Coast, and third prize will be a weekend Coast vacation.

Local Coast youngsters will also be invited to enter a sand castle building contest with various prizes and trophies supplied. The sand contest is set for July 4th.

The Biloxi Edgewater Merchants Association will sponsor a bikini contest. Beauties from colleges around the south will be competing for various prizes, including a fashion wardrobe and other items of value. The beauty contest will be on Saturday, July 3.

Those interested in entering should write Bikini Beach Contest Committee, Edgewater Plaza Merchants Association, Biloxi, for contest rules, entry forms and a description of prizes.

The Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo, long a feature of the July 4th weekend, will begin on July 1.

Council votes fluoride in water

The Bay St. Louis City Council Tuesday unanimously adopted a new ordinance increasing the amount of fluoride in the city's water supply based on a recommendation made by the State Health Officer.

Even though he voted for the proposal, Commissioner Lucien Kidd appeared unconvinced about the "medicinal" qualities of fluoride and said there was a continuing controversy within the medical community over the issue.

Mayor Warren Carver, on the other hand, introduced letters from physicians claiming that the fluoride increase would benefit the community.

A letter from Dr. Alton A. Cobb, State Health Officer, pointed out that the city had 4 or less parts per million fluoride in the water supply and that 1.0 parts per million is desirable.

He said until June 30 of this year, the State Board of Health could make a 50 percent matching grant to reduce the cost of fluoride installation up to $5,000.

By law the new ordinance must lay on the books 30 days according to Utility Commissioner Kidd before becoming law.

The ordinance will be advertised one week, Kidd said, to give citizens an opportunity to express their feelings on the fluoridation.

In the meantime, Kidd said, the city would have its engineers Burke & Associates proceed with cost estimates so that the city would have time to submit its application to the State Board of Health for the matching funds. Deadline is June 30.

Once the ordinance becomes law the city must advertise for material and equipment for installation of the fluoridation, Kidd said.

The bid must be awarded and equipment installed before Jan. 30, he added, before the city can qualify for the matching grant money.

"We're trying to find out now if we can get someone to do the work that fast," said Kidd.

Kidd said he expected the city to budget the city's share of the matching funds from revenue sharing.

"I sure don't have the money in my budget to pay for this," he added.

Hitchhiker death ruled hit-and-run

An investigation continues today into the hit and run death early Tuesday of a Florida hitchhiker near the Diamondhead exit on Interstate-10.

A Mississippi Highway Patrol spokesman said Lloyd Luther Hopper, 31, of Cantonment, Fla., was apparently killed when struck in the head by a vehicle's side-view mirror as he walked east on the highway.

Justice Court Judge Lloyd Anderson, who served as coroner at the inquest, said Hopper died from a blow received to the side of the head.

Hopper's body was found by a trucker, who reported it to the Hancock County Sheriff's Office.

The body was transferred from Edmond Fahey Funeral Home in Bay St. Louis to Fisher-Pou Funeral Home in Pensacola, Fla. for services.

Hopper was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto L. Hopper of Cantonment.

Services conducted for suicide victim

Private services for Wesley Leroy McFarland, 22, son of Dr. Wesley L. McFarland Sr. and Mrs. Rosemary R. McFarland both of Bay St. Louis, were held at 6:30 a.m. Wednesday in Gardens of Memory Cemetery.

The youth died Tuesday in Hattiesburg, apparently of a self-inflicted gunshot wound. Death was ruled a suicide by a coroner's jury conducted by Justice Court Judge Paul McPhail.

The Hattiesburg American reported Wednesday that a friend found McFarland, a University of Southern Mississippi freshman, lying on a bed in his off-campus apartment with a .357 calibre revolver by his side. Officers said he had been shot once in the forehead.

The youth was taken to Forrest General Hospital at approximately 2:45 p.m. and died there two hours later in the intensive care unit.

Members of the McFarland family reportedly told the panel of jurors that the youth had made previous attempts to kill himself.

Services were handled by Edmond Fahey Funeral Home of Bay St. Louis.

American Freedom Train chugs into Mobile May 11

A memorable mix of dazzling displays, striking scenes and exciting sounds of Americana - The American Freedom Train - is coming to the Brookley Aero Space Complex, Mobile, for three days, May 11-13. The hours to view the train will be from 8 - 10 daily.

Patriotically packaged in red, white and blue, the Train is a show-stopping, steam-puffing, whistle-tooting Bicentennial salute to America. Each day, thousands thrill to the sight of this beautiful birthday gift blazing its trail of twists and turns across the country.

The 25-car train is carrying a fascinating collection of historic documents, priceless objects and memorabilia that has never before been displayed together in one place. This exclusive Bicentennial production is a once-in-a-lifetime experience presented by The American Freedom Train Foundation.

Inc., a non-profit, tax-exempt and non-political organization with headquarters in Bailey's Crossroads, Va.

Hard on the heels of the July 4th Independence Day celebration in 1974, a red, white and blue "Preamble Express" began its test run from Boston, July 9, to many of the display sites planned for the actual visit of The American Freedom Train. The passengers aboard the "Preamble Express" were specialists concerned with the many details that had to be worked out before the Freedom Train could be put on the rails. In the end, all systems were go!

What followed was that this Bicentennial dream of a man with a passion for railroading, became a reality. Ross Rowland, a 35-year old commodity broker on Wall Street, was the first person to push the idea of a Freedom Train as a national Bicentennial project. It was based on the concept of "The Spirit of '47" that toured the nation for 16 months starting in 1947. Unique and imaginative, The American Freedom Train Bicentennial exhibit consists of 10 exhibit cars and two showcase cars. From the moment the viewer steps into Exhibit Car No. 1 on a moving walkway, there is a magical feeling of reliving 200 years of America's history. Ticket outlets at all Delchamps Stores in Mobile and Baldwin County will begin selling tickets April 25, for admission to the exhibit.

Children under three will be admitted free. Admission is $1 for children three to 12 and for senior citizens 65 and older. All others will be $2.

Exercise caution when making a bulk meat purchase

By NORINE BARNES
Comparing costs and making sure you are getting a good value can be difficult when you are buying a product with which you are unfamiliar. Most consumers are unfamiliar with meats in carcass form.

Your first consideration should be to find a dealer who has a well established reputation for honesty and fairness. Check with your local Better Business Bureau or Chamber of Commerce.

guard against.

The old game of "bait and switch" has sprung up in recent years among some dealers who offer meat for the home freezer. This takes the form of offering meat at very low prices, sometimes advertising it as USDA Choice or USDA Prime. Having attracted the customer to his establishment, the dealer will show him the advertised carcass. This often will be an over-fat, wasty carcass. It may, in fact, be graded "USDA Choice," but be a specially wasty specimen which is not typical of the grade.

Hanging alongside this wasty specimen, however, will be another, leaner carcass which the dealer then will convince the customer this is what he really wants for his family. And of course, the price per pound will be much higher. Even though this carcass may not carry the advertised USDA Choice grade mark, the dealer may assure the customer that it has been graded or that it is Fancy, Supreme or another likely grade name.

Remember that the official USDA grades for meat are the signs of quality. The best grades, in order of quality, are U.S. Prime, U.S. Choice and U.S. Good. The other five grades are: U.S. Standard, U.S. Commercial, U.S. Utility, U.S. Cutter and U.S. Canner. USDA grades for other products, such as U.S. Grade A for poultry and dairy products and U.S. Fancy for canned fruits and vegetables, cannot be applied to meat.

Another practice to watch out for is substituting cuts from the forequarter for hindquarter cuts and substituting lower grades of meat for higher grades.

Some suppliers advertise a "beef bundle" or a "steak package." Unless these ads specify the grade of the meat and the kind and amount of the various cuts included, but with caution.

In general, beware of advertisements which offer "something for nothing" — bargains which are too sensational to believe. No dealer can afford to give meat away, and reputable ones will not pretend to do so.

Vo-Tech grads have ready job skills

POPLARVILLE—Things are quiet around the Pearl River College Vocational-Technical Center at Poplarville, and school is not even out.

But most of the sophomore students are. In fact they are out in the real world working at jobs with pay scales ranging from $4 to $11.60 per hour.

Any graduating sophomore in one of our vo-tech fields can get a job if they want one," Albert Brooks, vocational-technical coordinator said. "All they have to do is look." And in most cases it is simpler than that.

"Industries are coming to us and hiring entire classes," Brooks said. Many are hiring the sophomores before the school year is completed. The same story can be said of nearly all the vocational-technical programs.

"All my graduates were hired by one company," Lavon Staten, PRC machine shop instructor commented. "I had 10 graduating, but if it had been 30 they would have taken them all," he said. "There is a huge demand," Staten added. "The very next day another company called wanting all my graduates." Starting pay began at $4 and reached as much as $4.65, depending upon the graduates grades and accomplishments in class.

Staten cited one student who left the immediate area and started work in Texas at $8.40 per hour. In 60 days he will be up to $11.40 per hour. Machine shop graduates are not the only ones with employers knocking on their doors.

Almost all the vo-tech graduates have jobs waiting for them, if they want to work, was the reply given by the vocational-technical instructors. Fourteen air-conditioning and refrigeration students are now working in this immediate area, Elton Buel said. The only ones that left this area chose to because they could make more money. Buel's students began making four dollars an hour.

However, most of the graduates are going to the Gulf Coast or the New Orleans area to find the employment. Ingalls of Pascagoula and Litton of New Orleans are taking most of the electricity and welding students. Again the salaries range from a starting $4.00 per hour up to $8.50 for some of the welders. Eighty percent of all the electronic students have jobs," Bob Dryer instructor said. "Another two weeks they can all have jobs."

"Industry is coming to the Gulf Coast," Brooks said. "This is definitely helping the employment situation. We are also giving the companies trained employees they need to do their work," Brooks added.

Consumer's Notebook

With Patricia Couch

Used furniture can be a terrific bargain if you buy it on a carefully thought-out plan.

First, decide exactly what you need and how much you can spend, including the price of the furniture and any charges for "fixing it up." Shop cautiously for each piece at garage sales, Goodwill and Salvation Army stores. Watch for bulletin board notices in apartment buildings and check local newspaper ads.

Some second-hand furniture may need only a good cleaning or a coat of paint. Other pieces require a lot of time and work before they can become useful again. Big repairs can make a used piece of furniture too expensive.

Check the quality of each piece before you buy. Is the framework well put together? Do the drawers pull out smoothly and easily? Drawer pulls should be fastened with screws or bolts that go all the way through the front of the drawer. Check to see that the sides and bottoms of each drawer are in good condition. Look carefully at the legs on all used furniture. Tables and

Ticket sales underway for lecture series

JACKSON, Miss. — Millsaps College historian and author, Dr. Charles Sallis, will get the ninth season underway for the Millsaps Arts and Lecture Series on Oct. 12 when he speaks on "Mississippi and the Nation: A Bicentennial View."

Tickets for the five attraction series for 1976-77 are still available, according to Mrs. Armand Coulet, executive director of the series. Prices are: $10 regular membership; $8 Millsaps faculty and staff; $30, patron (two tickets); $50, sponsor (two tickets) and $100 and above, donor (four tickets).

Following Dr. Sallis on next year's slate is political columnist Jack Anderson, who will come to Jackson for a Nov. 3 lecture.

The third program is a musical by the Millsaps Players, set for Feb. 23-26, 1977. Tentative selection for this "performance" is "The Rothschilds," which is the work of the composers of "Fiddler on the Roof."

Five musicians whose musical selections range from the Renaissance to the modern, with a dash of "rock," are featured on the March 2 program as The Canadian Brass.

British actor John Stuart Anderson will round out the series with his March 17 dramatization of Old Testament characters, a new and exciting concept of solo theatre.

Tickets may be obtained from any member of the ticket team, by calling the college at 354-5201 or by writing Mrs. Armand Coulet, Millsaps Arts and Lecture Series, Millsaps College, Jackson, MS 39210.

Historic Preservation Week to be observed May 9 - 15

Elbert R. Hilliard, state historic preservation officer and director of the Department of Archives and History, announced today that May 9 -

15 will be National Historic Preservation Week. In announcing these plans, Hilliard noted that this special week is sponsored annually by

concerned with the preservation of historic houses and districts, archaeological sites, industrial structures, gardens, interior furnishings, and the decorative arts and the ways in which they can be used to enhance life in 20th century America.

The National Trust helps individuals and groups throughout the country organize to save threatened historic sites and buildings. It aids in coordinating private, public, and governmental efforts and provides training and professional advice on all phases of preservation. The National Trust is headed by James Biddle, and its headquarters is in Washington, D.C.

National Historic Preservation Week is observed throughout the country to make Americans more aware of the historic preservation movement and its accomplishments. Hilliard stated that the public is cordially invited to visit the historic properties administered by the Department of Archives and History during this special observance. These sites include the Old Capitol in Jackson, Windsor Ruins near Port Gibson, Jefferson College in Washington, and the Grand Village of the Natchez Indians in Natchez.

Income from retired serviceman's family plan not reportable

Enrollment in Retired Serviceman's Family Protection Plan, (RSFPP), formerly called the Contingency Option Plan, was terminated by enactment of the Survivor Benefit Plan (RMSBP) Sept. 21, 1972. Survivors of veterans from RSFPP are reminded that on the Income Questionnaire Card sent to parents drawing dependency and indemnity compensation, and to recipients of V.A. Pension payments, this IS NOT a reportable income. Income received from RMSBP IS a reportable income.

Veterans who retired from the U.S. military before Sept. 21, 1972 and who had RSFPP at the time of retirement and converted from RSFPP to SBP between Sept. 1972 and March 1974, the following questions are important: Were you retired from Civil Service at time of such conversion? Did you waive military retired pay to increase the Survivor Annuity concurrent with your Civil Service Retirement? If you answer to all the above questions is YES, I suggest you contact your Finance Center regarding a possible adjustment necessary to your Survivor Coverage. The Comptroller General ruled on June 4, 1975 that the conversion from RSFPP to SBP under the above conditions is invalid and that RSFPP coverage is still effective.

World's great civilizations have been 200 years. This Nation progressed through this sequence. From Bondage to Spiritual Faith. From Spiritual Faith to Great Courage. From Great Courage to Liberty. From Liberty to Abundance. From Abundance to Selfishness. From Selfishness to Complacency. From Complacency to Apathy. From Apathy to Dependence. From Dependence back again to Bondage. Our United States will be 200 years old very soon. This cycle is not inevitable. It depends on YOU.

Tenn-Tom waterway needed by Hancock

The Mississippi State Legislature is presently debating ways and means of financing two of the 10 bridges to be constructed in connection with the Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway scheme.

Among the multiplicity of proposals is senate bill (S3044) seeking abolition of the Tombigbee River Water Management District, with a diversion of its funds into the bridge account.

A House introduction (H1452) calls for issuance authorization for some $13.8 million in state bonds - also for the bridges.

Another of the suggestions seeks a one mill property tax hike for each of the waterway's 13 neighboring Mississippi counties.

The 253-mile waterway - to cost in excess of $1.4 billion, and termed the nation's largest public works project of all time - is being built to connect the Gulf Coast directly to the Tennessee River. When complete it will bring the sea and foreign markets as much as 700 miles closer to America's heartland, and open the state's entire Northeastern quadrant to unprecedented industrial development.

There is an even bigger advantage. According to the maritime industry, tows heading north from the Gulf will traverse the still waters to be generated by the Tenn-Tom's five dams and navigational lock systems, plus the relatively slow moving streams of the presently canalized Warrior-Tombigbee Waterway, in preference to the fast running and tricky Mississippi River.

Hancock County is ideally located to profit from the increased barge and coaster vessel movement then passing its shores, through its industrial and harbor facilities at Port Bienville, and if required the additional developments stipulated in its master development plan.

While not pretending to know whether or not any of the funding proposals are either the best, or the most efficient, it is worthy that action is being taken to permit the state's full scale participation.

We strongly suggest individual contact be made with our area senator and representatives, urging them to think positively when voting on this legislation.

SCORE to host all-day workshop

Title of the workshop is "Keys to A Successful Business" and will cover essential elements of starting and managing a small business.

WASHINGTON EVENTS AFFECTING OUR COMMUNITY

Lessons not learned are often repeated

In times of economic recession or other national trouble, it is sometimes of consoling thought that history repeats itself - that as a nation we have experienced these kinds of difficulties before in the last 200 years and have survived them, and risen above them to new heights and strengths.

Sometimes, however, there are aspects of history that should not be allowed to repeat themselves. Take, for example, the problems of overregulation by the government, of growing social welfare, and of large government debts.

This is a time when many Americans have become increasingly and understandably disturbed and dismayed by the degree to which big government has taken over local functions, entering the activities of people's daily lives through regulations, reports, permits, taxes, and paperwork.

Yet 200 years ago, on July 4, the Declaration of Independence said, speaking of the then equivalent of big government, King George III,

"He has erected a multitude of new offices, and sent hither swarms of officers to harass our people, and eat out their substance."

Also, Americans who work for a living are understandably angry at the way their income is redistributed through welfare programs.

Thomas Jefferson wrote: "To take from one...in order to spare to others who, or whose fathers have not exercised equal industry...is to violate arbitrarily the first principle of association, the guarantee to everyone of a free exercise of his industry, and the fruits acquired by it."

Again, all thinking Americans are dismayed at the prospect of continued deficit spending, and the rapidly mounting public debt.

Jefferson also said: "I place economy among the first and most important virtues, and public debt the greatest of dangers to be feared."

It is to be hoped and believed that this Bicentennial Year will also mark a return to the wisdom of some of the founding fathers. The situation is right for it. There is real public awareness of the dangers of pursuing the liberal policies that have led to vast and wasteful spending on unproductive social programs run from Washington.

We may be seeing the beginning of a turning point in our national history, and a return to the straightforward paths the founders saw with such clarity.

Greatest Show on Earth

By ED BLAKE Miss. Farm Bureau Federation

Mississippi is luxuriantly beset with nature's elegant celebration of spring, bringing to everyone from the northeast hills to the coastal marshes literally the greatest show on earth.

This week's column steps aside from a usual public affairs format to look beyond the plowed fields, asphalted complexes and ultra-controlled sites to the roadsides, meadows, woods and marshes to give a timely guide to the current springtime wildflower show enjoying a magnificent run on our natural stage.

If you are typical, you probably are not very familiar with the names of the wildflowers, so this report will serve as an introduction to some of the showiest or most unusual plants now in bloom as this is published.

Let's look around our state by colors. The yellows are among the showiest and dominating, and right now you will see the boldest of the black-eyed susans just getting underway in the southern half extending rapidly to Tennessee. Colonies of coreopsis got the jump on the susans, barely, and are lavishly scattered over the state. In dampy places the flat topped masses of yellow flowers on stalks about two feet high are ragworts and have been with us for over a month and are now on the way out.

The blues include showy colonies of heal-all standing about a foot high with light blue tiered blooms - an ancient medicinal plant; skullcaps, about the same size abounding in moist protected places; toadflax, delicate blue topped flowers on slim 18 inch tall stems that sway in the spring breezes. South of Hattiesburg in the pine hills look for a real stopper - the ultra showy clumps of lady lupine with startlingly beautiful masses of flower spikes in varying hues from blue to lilac. The six inch to a foot flower spikes are mottled with deep lilac if not maroon coloration.

Among the pinks and reds the predominant flowers presently are the flared primroses with their golden pollen centers that so easily are blotted out someone's nose if you indulge in children's games. They are sometimes white. The pink flower you may see in a moist, semi-shady spot found rarely but surely is a delightful discovery when it turns out to be one of the state's native orchids - the rose pogonia or beard flower. Its beautiful blossoms are only about an inch in size but mark a giant sized discovery when you are observant enough to find them. A sizeable colony of these orchids currently bloom in a roadside ditch north of Benndale in George County.

Not far from these diminutive orchids are colonies of one of Mississippi's most unusual plants that are found roughly from the Wiggins area to the coast. These "pitcher plants" are insect eaters and it is hard to choose whether the yellow or red blooms are any more fascinating or beautiful than the "pitcher" stems with their streaked red and yellow or green hoods. Into these tubes insects descend to feed on a sweet mucous only to find themselves trapped to be consumed by the plants.

Probably the predominant white flower now on the roadsides is one of the several forms of fleabane, not very noteworthy within itself but adding to the fairland aspect of nature, while Queen Anne's lace is primping now to take over in the weeks ahead. Chances are you will never avail yourself of the privilege of viewing huge colonies of Atamasco lilies that have been blooming in low, moist woodlands since before Easter. Their blooms are dying now and ironically they are among the showiest of our wild plants and are seldom seen because of their well hidden habitat. Easier found at your feet in moist places in south Mississippi are tiny white violets.

The purples include colonies of vervain or wild verbenas, especially noteworthy around Meridian. When deep in the moist, shady woods seeking beanpoles you may find two strangely beautiful companions - jack-in-the-pulpits and green dragons. Jack is now holding forth from the pulpit and the dragon's yellow tongue is now springing to life. But don't fear them for at the stroke of mid-autumn they suddenly turn into clumps of red berries on a short stem. Such is nature's greatest show - this week.

observed that the Panamanians are not alone in their excitement. South Mississippians also have some rather clear-cut ideas about the Panama Canal, its past, and its future.

"We paid for it," one constituent told me. "It's ours. Why give it away?"

That gentleman has a valid point. We poured our sweat and blood, not to mention our money, into that Canal many years ago and have stood by the provisions of the treaty that was signed in 1903. It makes no sense to throw in the towel and give it all up just because Panama has had another change of heart and now wants to nullify that treaty.

The people of the Fifth District seem to feel the same way. An overwhelming 89 percent of those who responded to my recent questionnaire rejected the suggestion that we relinquish our treaty rights, jurisdiction, and control over the Canal Zone.

Actually, the controversy is nothing new. Almost from the very beginning, Panama has objected to some of the provisions of the treaty and has lobbied intensely to have it modified over the years.

They seem to resent the presence of Americans in the area immediately surrounding the Canal. They don't like our military presence there. They object to American sovereignty in the Canal Zone. They want a larger share of the profits.

Basically, however, they just want the U.S. to pull out and leave the Canal to them.

That would hardly be a wise move from the American point of view. After all, the Panama Canal is our gateway to the world. It's the jugular vein to the western hemisphere.

It's downright critical to American interests.

Accordingly, I joined last year in sponsoring H. Res. 127, a measure in support of continued undiluted United States sovereignty and jurisdiction over the Canal Zone. I also opposed the use of State Department funds for negotiating the surrender or relinquishment of any U.S. rights over Panama.

Many members of the House and the Senate feel the same way. In fact, during the first session of the 94th Congress, 38 Senators and 161 Congressmen supported resolutions in both houses opposing relinquishment of any U.S. rights. And on June 26, 1975, the House passed 246-164 an amendment to the State Department appropriations bill forbidding the use of any funds to negotiate the surrender of U.S. rights in the Canal Zone.

Panama Canal experts have told me that surrender of U.S. rights in the Canal Zone would result in a loss of over $5 billion. That represents much of the total net investment U.S. taxpayers have forked out in the construction and subsequent maintenance, operation and defense of the Canal since its inception in 1904.

My objections to the transfer of the Canal to the Panamanians rest mainly on the fact that Panama simply does not have the technical capability or management expertise to run the Canal the way it must be run. Then, too, the unstable nature of Panamanian politics would probably mean frequent changes of heart by the Panamanians.

In other words, we would never know where we stand.

Just look at their track record during the last 67 years. They have gone through 38 changes of government during that time - including 11 changes in the last 10 years!

That's hardly the mark of effective and dependable leadership.

The United States cannot afford to run the risk of losing its rights to the Panama Canal. You can bet that I will oppose any move in that direction.

Letters to the Editor

Editor, Sea Coast Echo Dear Sir:

I want to thank you for your recently published article (Echo April 15) on oysters, by staff writer, Mike Flynn. It was well presented, giving most all phases of the oysters from harvesting, shucking and final packing.

There are a few items of control in shellfish sanitation which I feel are sometimes known only by the packers and not general public knowledge.

These are briefly:

1. The State Board of Health issues permits (the number you see on the containers) to packers who meet the sanitary standards. Don't buy unless the number is on the container.

2. This also includes the shell-stock dealers, who sell oysters in sacks or hampers. These containers have to be properly tagged. Usually a boat operator who qualifies may secure a shell stock permit. Most shell stock dealers have shore installations. This group is not allowed to do any shucking or packing, as they are not equipped to do so. Further, this prevents persons from selling oysters in sacks or as shucked in any place, unless they have an unrevoked permit from the state board of health.

3. All oysters sold to the public must be shucked and packed in a certified packing plant.

4. It is illegal for unapproved oysters (oysters harvested from restricted waters and commonly called "bootleg") to be offered for sale by any person. These are subject to seizure without notice.

5. An approved oyster plant gives a valid bill of sale for all shucked or shell oysters.

6. For the oyster industry to continue to grow along the coast, the public must have confidence in the product.

7. The sanitation regulations may seem stringent, but it should be remembered that all oysters sold are not cooked; in fact, quite a few are consumed raw. So these regulations are meant to protect all consumers of oysters.

8. For further information relative to any phase of the raw oyster business, persons may contact their local health department or the state board of health personnel in Gulfport, who are responsible for the raw oyster industry along the coast.

Once again, we appreciate the informative article which you presented.

Yours very truly, William B. Moorer Advisory Sanitarian

Editor, Sea Coast Echo Dear Sir:

Cats and dogs dominate the animal scene in America today, replacing the horses, cows, chickens and pigs of 200 years ago.

American's attitudes towards animals have changed considerably since this country was founded. In 1776 individuals were heavily dependent on animals for food, transportation and other necessities. The same is true today, but to a lesser degree. "Animals of livelihood" have been replaced by companion animals, or pets, such as dogs and cats. Even the horse, so vital in Paul Revere's time, has become largely a pleasure animal.

Ironically, American's love of animals creates problems for animal life. Horses are often purchased without giving sufficient thought to the time and expense involved in adequately caring for them. Many individuals seek wild or exotic animals as pets, neither of which are suitable as pets. Probably the greatest injustice is to dogs and cats. Each year, the American Humane Association estimates that it costs $125 million to destroy unwanted dogs and cats at city pounds and animal shelters throughout the country.

What waste! Not only in terms of the pointless destruction of animal life but in tax dollars that could be devoted to better animal control or animal welfare; and in contributions to humane societies that could be devoting the costs of animal control and euthanasia to educational programs and the subsequent improved welfare of animals.

Until pet owners show greater responsibility to their animals and have their pets spayed or neutered, the problem will go uncorrected. The tragedy of unwanted animals is not an animal problem, but a "people problem."

Since May 2-8 is Be Kind To Animals Week, sponsored annually by the American Humane Association since 1915, we of the Bay-Waveland Humane Society appeal to all pet owners to take steps now to stop the growing overpopulation of dogs and cats. This can only be done by controlling your pet and/or surgical neutering.

It is no "kindness" to allow your pet to have unwanted litters. Kindness is more than just food and shelter. It is also the prevention of unwanted offspring that ultimately must be destroyed.

Sincerely, Mrs. Donna Miller, Secretary, The Bay-Waveland Humane Society, Inc.

Bicentennial News

By Joe Pilet

"To properly understand George Washington and what he means to the American citizen we should think of him as a man and not as an ideal," wrote Mary Elizabeth Hart when she prepared a paper in 1959 to mark the 227th anniversary of the birth of George Washington. The paper was read at a meeting of the Order of the Eastern Star in Houston, Texas.

Bessie Hart was not born in Bay St. Louis. She was brought as an infant to this area from Hart Town. Her education at St. Joseph's Academy, very limited by today's standards, was sufficient to equip her for a lifetime career in Houston, Texas, as an executive with the Southern Pacific Railroad. Although complimentary passes gave her "gratis travel" on all lines, what travel she did was Eastern Star and Masonic Order Oriented. Incorporated in her paper was the following poem:

THE OLD MASTER MASON

George Washington

Just a plain old Master Mason, not a Royal Arch was he

Yet he spoke it seemed as if he knew life's mystery And solved the meaning of the word Immortality.

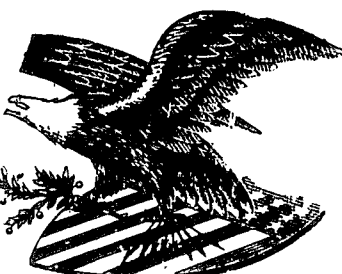

Just a plain old Master Mason - no Consistory or Shrine

But on his breast there hung a square, A Compass and a G, Symbolic of the three degrees of Ancient Craft Masonry.

Just a plain old Master Mason, thanking God that he could see

Jacob's ladder reaching upward e'en from the First Degree,

A lesson to us all of Faith, Hope and Charity.

Explaining the Purple Heart, the paper recorded: "The first decoration for valor to be awarded to the soldiers of the United States was the Purple Heart. The badge, a purple heart cut out of silk and edged with red braid was sewn on the uniform over the left breast of the wearer. A Connecticut soldier named Elijah Churchill was one of the first to be awarded the Purple Heart by General Washington."

Continuing her research, Miss Hart said: "Washington selected the sites for the National Capitol, the White House and many other buildings. He had great vision. He urged Congress in planning for the city with these words: 'A century hence, if our country keeps intact, will produce on the banks of the Potomac, a city not as large as London, yet of a magnitude inferior to few.'"

The paper concluded with the observation:

"Washington has left many things for us of the present day to cherish, the records of brave deeds and steadfastness to duty written on the pages of our history, of customs that have been adhered to through these many years. These have been recounted to you many times, yet we have one treasure which has come to us from the days of Washington of which we cannot be too often reminded. The flag of our country - the symbol of all that Washington means to us. You and I are flag makers for the next generation. The flag that we pass on to them will be what we make it. It has come to us untarnished and unstained, the banner of Freedom. May we guard it as a sacred heritage, and may we hand it to our successors in its spotless beauty in truth and in deed."

During her lifetime Mary Elizabeth Hart compiled and edited several small booklets used by the O.E.S. Could any of her works be more challenging to us than her last known published sentence: "May we guard it (the National Flag) as a sacred heritage...may we hand it to our successors in spotless beauty..."

Natural look returns to floor coverings

Two home decorating trends have been gaining ground lately.

One is the use of area rugs and other floor coverings instead of wall-to-wall carpet.

The other is a growing preference for natural materials or affordable synthetics that look like the real thing.

The origin of what decorators call "the natural look" doesn't need to be traced because it's one of those classic decorating styles that's always present to some degree. It's just that, in the cyclical world of interior decorating, the natural look is sometimes in the ascendant, as it is now, while at other times other styles are on the upswing.

Among the natural-look designs available in no-wax or vinyl floors are brick, wood, stone, slate, and ceramic tile.

as much influence as possible to have the Corps funded for this purpose," Webb said.

Webb cited the existing channel's necessity to such established park industries as Marine Concrete Products, and International Demolition and Salvage, Co. Marine Concrete manufactures off-shore concrete platforms and specialty barges at Port Bienville, and is flexing to expand production, particularly in the area of units requiring deep depth and maximum channel width.

International Demolition's needs for movement of its Liberty Ships, and future contracted vessels, include the 12 foot depth.

Paramount to both is the need for the additional railway span clearance offered at the Rigolets to that of the East Pearl River Louisville and Nashville Railroad mainline crossing. At Rigolets the horizontal span width is 155.7 feet whereas the East Pearl River's L&N span, when fully opened, measures 87 feet.

Don't discard a beautiful teapot, vase or jar too cracked to hold water. Instead, insert a "hidden compartment" made of a smaller jar and fill that with liquid.

County Agent notes

OSHA requires tractor safety instruction

The Occupational Safety and Health Act (OSHA) requires safety training for all tractor drivers. The act requires farmers to provide instructions to employees on practices that will lessen the chance of a tractor rollover.

These practices include: avoid operating tractors near ditches, embankments and holes whenever possible; reduce speed when turning, crossing slopes, and on rough, slick or muddy surfaces; stay off slopes too steep for safe operation; hitch only to drawbar and hitch points recommended by the manufacturer.

Each new employee must be informed of these and other operating instructions when he goes to work. The warnings must be repeated at least once a year to all employees.

PORK PRODUCTION
Farrowing time is a critical period in a hog production operation. The number of pigs farrowed and weaned in each litter goes a long way in determining the profit you make.

To improve the survival chances of your baby pigs, make sure that you prepare for each litter. Two weeks before farrowing, each sow should be wormed. It is also a good idea to treat for external parasites at the same time. Between farrowings, clean and disinfect the farrowing house and leave it vacant for at least a week. Do not use the farrowing house for other animals.

PASTURE PLANTING
We all know that a good seedbed is necessary in row crop production, but the same thing is true when planting new pastures.

A poorly prepared, rough pasture seedbed can give you trouble for several years to come. To prevent this, disk or plow the seedbed thoroughly to get out rough spots and leave the surface even enough to be easily mowed. Use a cultipacker to firm the soil.

During soil preparation, apply the needed phosphate and potash. Withhold nitrogen until planting time. Adding it earlier encourages weeds to compete with the grass. Lime should be applied to acid soils during preparation to mix it thoroughly.

Try to get pastures planted before June 1 to reduce chances of drought interfering with grass establishment.

WATCH OUT
Cheap herbicides can be expensive. Several out-of-state companies as well as some within the state are selling herbicides over the telephone. Many of these products are our common herbicides that have been diluted with water, oils or one of several other solvents. Sometimes the selling price is near that of the more concentrated product. Be wary of any exceptionally good prices on new products that are promoted to solve almost any problem.

RECREATE THE PAST

By Ben Helms
MaLeck Woodcraft

It can be both easy and economical to transform a bedroom or guest room into an elegant Early American room, if you use your head—and your hands.

COLONIAL LOOKING GLASS—Elaborately carved frames set off rare and cherished mirrors of early America.

You can create, for example, your own four-poster bed from four posts and a piece of plywood for the headboard. The legs from an old chest can be used for finials. Browse around your local antique store or junk shop and select some wide planks for frames. Refinish each plank with pine stain and a good wax.

To help complete the historic look, you can get several reproductions of Colonial accessories in warm antique pine to match the bed. Some of the most beautiful of all Colonial designs were often found on mirror frames. A looking glass many Americans take a shine to today comes in a delicately balanced frame from MaLeck's Country Collection of hand-crafted Colonial reproductions. For a free booklet on other furniture and decorative accessories, write MaLeck Woodcraft, Dept. H-3, Wingate, N.C. 28174.

MAKING FAMILY LIFE MORE FUN

HOW DO YOU RATE AS A DECORATOR?

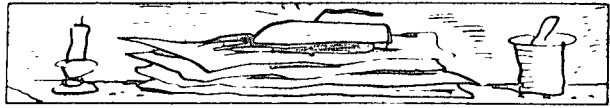

If you want your home to mean more to your family than a place to stay while the car's being repaired, you might take a look around to see if it is pleasant and livable and comfortable.

If it is, then you rate top marks as a decorator. And likely as not, your slipcovers, curtains, pillows and tablecloths are made of cotton, the fabric that's perfect for active family life.

It's durable, it breathes and absorbs moisture, so it's always comfortable. It's versatile. And a little care goes a long way. For all these reasons, many interior designers consider cotton a great fabric for great living.

OPEN, AIRY SUNROOM—Awash with yellow, limes and oranges, it's decked out in Fair Isle print pure cotton corduroy from Crompton Richmond.

To remove candle wax stain, place the stain between clean white blotters or several layers of facial tissues and press with warm iron. Then sponge with grease solvent.

Because they believed them to be a charm against lightning people once grew leaks on their houses' thatched roofs.

NEWS OF TRAVEL

American Tourists Discover Highlights Of Europe

THROUGH A CHILD'S EYES—It's not difficult to imagine a coach and four pulling up to this centuries-old English tavern.

This year many Americans who travel to Europe are being charmed not only by new sights and friendly people, but by their tour itineraries as well. In coach tours of Europe that feature visits to fascinating European cities such as London, Brussels, Cologne, Venice, Rome, Lucerne and Paris (among others), American vacationers are discovering that many of these unforgettable cities can be enjoyed in a leisurely fashion.

One typical trip, a three week air-motorcoach tour, features many of the highlights of Europe and begins after boarding an Air-India 747 to London. Then, two leisurely days in London before you travel through the charming countryside of Kent to Dover. Here you cross the Channel to Ostend where you board your motor coach and proceed via Bruges to Brussels the historic capital of Belgium on the fourth day. The ninth day finds you in Venice. A morning walking tour features the picturesque St. Mark's Square and cathedral, Doge's Palace, the Bridge of Sighs, and other historic sites. There's even an optional tour to a glass-blowing factory on the nearby island of Murano.

The eleventh and twelfth day finds you in Rome strolling along the famous Spanish Steps or viewing the most important remnants of ancient Rome, such as the Imperial Forum and the Coliseum. After Florence you motor west to Pisa, home of the famous "Leaning Tower" and beautiful 11th century cathedral. Then on to Nice and Grenoble until the seventeenth day finds you motoring across the Swiss border for Lucerne, one of the most picturesque of all Swiss resorts. Take a stroll through the "Old Town" and towers and then in the afternoon there's an excursion to the top of Mt. Pilatus, featuring a thrilling cable car ride and return trip to Lucerne.

The nineteenth and twentieth day of this spectacular tour takes you to Paris, the "City of Lights" where you can tour the city's major attractions such as the Champs Elysees, Eiffel Tower and sip an aperitif in a charming outdoor cafe. Then back across the channel to London and then back home having discovered the pleasures, highlights and contrasts of some of the loveliest cities in Europe. For further details contact your travel agent or write Air-India, 345 Park Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10022.

The musical which ran three years on Broadway closely follows the story of the real Annie Oakley, who when still a teenage girl was matched in a shooting exhibition one day in 1881 in a village near Cincinnati with the leading marksman of the day, a man named Frank Butler. She beat him.

Ethel Merman originally triumphed in her portrayal of the fabulous marksmanship champion, Annie Oakley. Carrie Harger will have the same role here of the star sharpshooter, and Jeff Bell will be seen as Frank Butler, the man her heart aims at but can't capture till she puts that rifle down.

After many complications involving the problems of show business and romance in those days, Annie realizes that "You Can't Get A Man With A Gun," per the song of that title, and she finally lets Butler out-shoot her in a rematch, and thereby regains his love.

Among some of the other Berlin favorites introduced in this show, besides the bragging "Anything You Can Do" and the advice about not trying to get a man with a gun, are "Doin' What Comes Naturally," "Sun in The Morning," and the rousing "There's No Business Like Show Business" which has now become a sort of national anthem of the entertainment world.

In addition to Miss Harger and Mr. Bell in the central roles of Annie Oakley and Frank Butler, the large cast of over 100, including orchestra, will include Butch Anderson as Charlie Davenport, Elaine Stone as Dolly Tate, Penny Towns and Tammy Green as Winnie Tate, Tony Gull and Roger Foster as Tommy Keeler, and Steve Walkinshaw as Buffalo Bill.

The orchestra is under the direction of Richard De Le Puente with choral direction by Avery Todd. Mrs. Trudy Foster will assist backstage and Mrs. Mary Anne Eadie is in charge of the wardrobe consisting of over 100 costumes.

Reservations may be obtained for the May 4 performance by telephoning 435-2554 or may be purchased from the Biloxi Chamber of Commerce. Tickets for other performances may be obtained by telephoning the school.

Bicentennial News

By JOE PILET

This is a whale of a tale—but it's all true, and if you're in doubt write Erick Kauders of Marblehead, Massachusetts. Ask him WHAT? Ask him how he came to be the owner of a portrait of George Washington that hung for over a half century in Calcutta, India!

Here's how I heard it: A self-made multimillionaire Hindu with the unpronounceable name of Ramdoal Day was given this larger-than-life (six by nine feet) painting of George Washington by United States traders in appreciation of favors granted. The portrait was authenticated as a Gilbert Stuart by experts in art restoration for the National Gallery of Art—yet there are still some who doubt, some haggling over it. Some say Stuart did the head and others the rest of the painting. Some speculate it was likely the work of William Winstanley. Who cares? The important part is Ramdoal Day.

Born of abjectly poor parents in an open field during the year 1752 in an area now designated East India International Airport, Ramdoal's parents survived by begging. Begging for a bit of rice.

Ramdoal's grandmother later found work as a cook in the house of wealthy export warehouse agent, Mudden Dutt. Fortunately she was of the same caste as her employer and rated as an "honored domestic," so her grandson lived and studied in a rich house. Ramdoal learned enough English to express himself fairly well and with hard work and great honesty in all dealings his poverty-to-prosperity record included the good fortune of being at the right place at the right time.

So from the first job (bill collector) with salary about $13 dollars a month he later in one swoop made nearly $400,000 in a ship salvage auction and was then on his way to amassing some $30 million.

At one time his popularity was such that an American merchant and shipowner named a 446-ton sailing ship the Ramdola Day—in his honor.

And so, George Washington's portrait, a gift of esteem and affection from American merchants, graced the palatial residence first of Ramdoal Day and passed through six generations to one H.C. Mallik. In 1963 the painting was bought by Mr. Kauders.

After 162 years in India, our George Washington is "back home!"

unidentified, said that Gesell would work to make sure the Navy follows what it said it would do in its impact statement regarding aid in any instance of housing discrimination or relocating.

Under the court's order, the plaintiffs in the suit have 30 days in which to file an appeal to Gesell's ruling. Any appeal that is granted would be heard by another judge and not Gesell.

U. S. Senator John Stennis said he was "very pleased" with the court's ruling Tuesday. Stennis has been both criticized and praised by both sides of the fence for his behind doors lobbying to get the huge Navy facility moved to Mississippi.

Union officials of the American Federation of Government Employees recognizing the clout of the senator in the Congress termed the move a transfer to "Stennisissippi."

Stennis, chairman of the Senate Armed Forces Committee, has supported the Navy's position that the move is both economical and advantageous to consolidation of vital technical and scientific work away from the burgeoning Washington, D. C. area.

"I have been convinced all along that the needs of the Navy required a relocation and that the Mississippi site offered unique advantages to meet these needs," Stennis said Tuesday.

"This action, I believe, is the end of this matter in the courts," Stennis added. "The Senate, the House, the White House, and the Department of Defense have already approved this transfer and I'm sure the Navy will now proceed promptly."

Captain W. Gibson Carter deputy NAVOCEANO commander at NSTL, said Tuesday that he felt activity to complete the move to the Mississippi facility would commence rapidly now.

"We have been making our plans with everybody in a standby position," Carter said, "in order to commence right away."

Carter said every effort would be made to make the transfer as easy as possible on every family.

"We will bring as many down in the summer as possible," he added, "in order to make it an orderly family movement."

Carter said NAVOCEANO presently has approximately 110 employees at NSTL and that the Navy is approximately four and a half months behind its transfer schedule. The entire NAVOCEANO move is expected to consume 18 months.

Commander Bruce Matthews of the Naval Oceanographic Research and Development Activity (NORDA) at NSTL said NORDA personnel number approximately 50 civilian employees currently at the site with another 100 expected down over the next 30-60 days.

In addition about 100 will be hired over the summer and fall, he added, to bring the full complement to around 250.

Matthews said NORDA would proceed with office and lab modification and plans called for moving people down in work units so productivity would not be disrupted.

"We are an operating command already," Matthews said.

The NORDA chief said he also felt there would be no problems with housing for the surge of new transfers.

THE OLE PASTOR SAYS...

By L.S. WALKER
WHAT IS THE SECRET OF BEING NUMBER ONE?

There is an innate longing deep within each of us to be great in some respect. Right or wrong, we want to feel that our friends and enemies see us as an important person. Maybe we are the product of a system that is built around "No. 1." Nobody ever remembers who came in second.

When the Los Angeles Lakers acquired Kareem Jabbar, the number one professional basketball player in America, the newspaper account reported it with a headline that carried a touch of pathos. It read: "LAKERS LAND JABBAR AND A SECOND STRING PLAYER." Nobody knew who the second-stringer was.

"God is no respecter of persons" (Acts 10:34). "In God's love and concern for sinners, there are no numbers one, two or three. Contrary to what we have heard, all men are not created equal. But all are equal in His love and care."

Are there any number two people, or second-stringers among God's children? Obviously, the answer is "No." In God's eyes there are no first or second, because He has given each of us some talent, gift or ability with which to serve Him. When we use our God-given talent, great or small, as we may think of it, to serve God and man, in the place He has assigned us, then we are Number One to God. Our worth in the Kingdom of God is not determined by positions, abilities, even the amount of our giving, but by our availability to the Holy Spirit in His service.

True greatness is found in serving! Jesus taught:

"And whosoever will be chief among you, let him be your servant; even as the Son of man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give his life a ransom for many" (Matt. 20:27-28).

Often, we feel that we were overlooked, even though we were ready to serve, when positions are filled in church activities. Let me hasten to remind you that rewards are not passed out here, but at the "Judgement seat of Christ" (Rom. 14:10; II Cor. 5:10). Neither will be denied any blessings He has for us here. Blessings here, and rewards in the age to come, are not determined by positions, wealth nor abilities, but rather by our faithfulness and sacrifice in His service.

Jesus, it seems, pointed out the true secret of being NUMBER ONE, when He spoke to His disciples of a "certain poor widow" casting in her two mites into the offerings of the Temple treasury. Jesus said: "This poor widow" has done more than they (the rich who had given much greater amounts) all (Luke 21:1-4).

This was true because she had less left. Her gift represented a greater measure of sacrifice, hence, a greater love. Was she NUMBER ONE? Well, she certainly wasn't a second-stringer!

Sand artist hits the bottle

By CAROLE LANGE

"I've got a passion for color, a world of patience, fortitude, and a screw loose - that's why I do it."

The "it" is sand art, making intricate designs from sand in a bottle, and the "I" is Mrs. Louise Nolan of Pass Christian, a self-acclaimed "sand digger."

Mrs. Nolan has made sand art her hobby for the past nine years.

"It all started when one of my students (she is a retired Jefferson Davis Junior College teacher) brought me a small sand art bottle as a souvenir from an Arizona vacation."

"I had some free time that summer, and I needed a new hobby," she said.

Mrs. Nolan admits she hadn't the slightest idea of how to go about her new craft, "but I knew I needed a funnel to put the sand into the bottle, and something to poke it into a pattern."

Since her introduction to the art, her basic tools remain the same: a pancake turner for digging the sand, a funnel, a mallet for pounding it firmly in the bottle, and a "poker."

The latter device is quite original in design. It consists of a piece of guide wire left in her yard by telephone repairmen, and wooden dowel attached to the wire via masking tape.

Mrs. Nolan, who can "draw to a limited extent," insists that her finished products result from "more perspiration than inspiration." She creates her designs based on the whim of the moment, "or whatever looks nice in that particular container."

Beginning with basic geometric patterns, the sand artisan has progressed to elaborate animal and bird figures, and Indian blanket design, and scenes from nature.

"I must enjoy what I do," she said, "because I put up with long hours, little time to devote to my other projects, spilled sand all over my house, and a crushed ego when something doesn't turn out right."

Others must enjoy what Mrs. Nolan does also, as she is constantly filling orders for custom-designed sand art.

At 62, Mrs. Nolan and her husband Elmo, a retired Air Force colonel, travel on a regular basis to collect samples of the some 200 natural sands found throughout the country.

When she spies a particularly unusual, or brightly colored sand, she arms herself with her pancake turner and a plastic bag and proceeds to "scrabble" down the sandpit to "dig to my heart's content."

"I have to scrabble," she said, "because if I don't keep moving, that beautiful sand just might close in on me."

While Mrs. Nolan is engaged in this activity, her husband pursues his favorite hobby, "hounding rocks."

"We're both rockhounds," she said.

"In fact, when I first met Elmo I was holding a bag of rocks in each hand."

"Old Sandbags" (a nickname given to her by her husband) said though her tools are inexpensive "and my time costs nothing," the cost of gas required to drive on cross-country digging tours

Taking inventory of the sand stock

"is astronomical." The Nolans travel with a group now in order to share both expenses and companionship.

The couple owns a camper, but Mrs. Nolan prefers to travel in their pick-up truck and sleep in motels along the route. "That camper gets so sandy, so quick," she said. "I like to work with the stuff (sand), but I sure don't want to sleep in it."

Neighbors always know when the Nolans have returned from one of their many jaunts, because a fresh pile of moist sand lies drying on a tarpaulin in the driveway.

"The phone usually starts ringing the minute we get back with people wanting to know what colors we've found, where we've been, what happened to us on the way, and when we're leaving again."

She said most of her trips are made on the basis of tips passed on by other

"...passion for color, and a loose screw."

artisans. "Since these sands can be found in 20 states, I have to rely on tips as to where the best sources are."

Mrs. Nolan denies that she is part of the current "sand art craze" and is a little wary of pre-package kits. "They really don't give you enough materials to get the feeling of creating," she said.

Her sand creations are displayed in an assortment of containers, including lamps, fruit jars, pickle jars, glasses, candy dishes, etc.

"Ardent Baptists," the Nolans don't drink but purchase liquor to get the carved decanters. "We give the whiskey away," she hastily points out.

A small, spry woman, Mrs. Nolan has braved rainstorms, sandstorms (naturally) and even two encounters with rattlesnakes to claim the main ingredient for her art, the fine "sugar sand." Any other type sand is too harsh to "poke and pack easily," she said.

Mrs. Nolan said Mississippi has a vast supply of natural color sand, especially at sites near Meridian, south of Jackson, and near Grenada. She said some of her most colorful sands come from Texas and Idaho, while upper Illinois and Wisconsin boast deposits of the oldest sand.

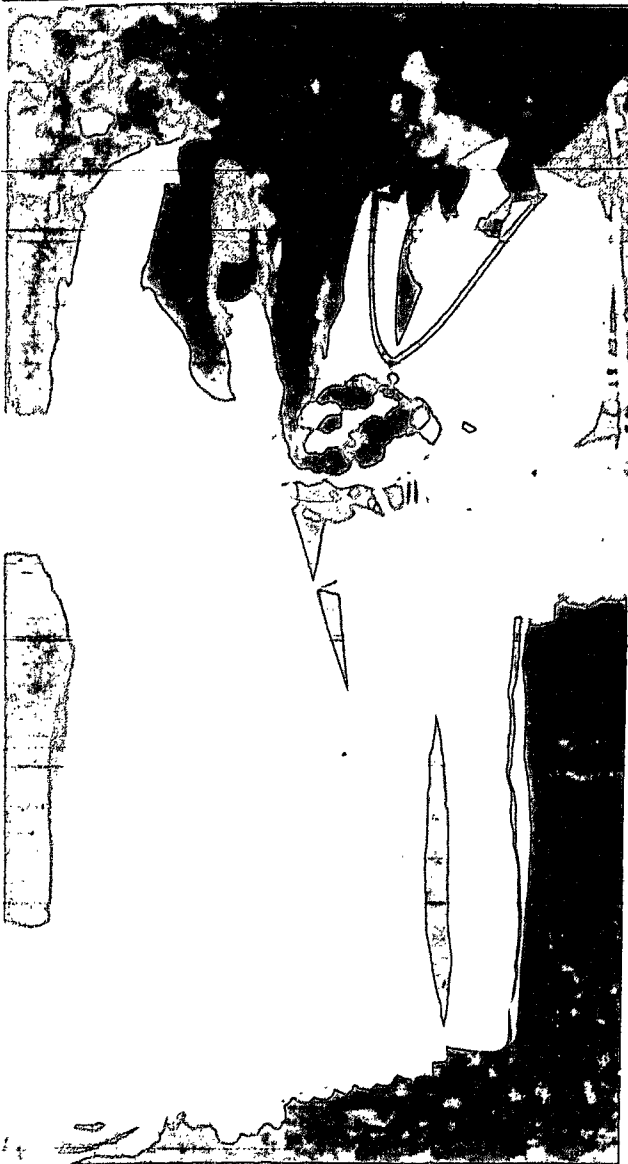

She said a true "patriotic" red and a deep chocolate brown color sand still elude her "but I know they're out there somewhere."

With this conviction, and a seemingly inexhaustible supply of energy, "Old Sandbags" has set off again to do the thing she loves best, "just poking around."

Black Americans prone to high blood pressure

Ask the average man on the street what physical ailment affects blacks and you'll probably hear sickle-cell anemia. That's understandable because it has received considerable publicity.

But there is another condition that singles out blacks—high blood pressure. And while all Americans are susceptible to high blood pressure (hypertension), black Americans are twice as likely to have it.

"And when they do have it," says Dr. Gerald Hopkins, chairman, National High Blood Pressure Month of the Mississippi Heart Association, "it's more severe."

Yet, there is a lot that can be done. A simple blood pressure check can detect high blood pressure. And it usually can be controlled with a treatment program.

A proper diet is important. Salt has been identified as a contributor to high blood pressure, so a reduction in salt intake can be beneficial.

Foods that are high in saturated fats and cholesterol are "no-no's," also. "These foods tend to cause a build-up of fatty materials in the arteries," Dr. Hopkins points out, "and they begin to narrow, harden, and lose their elasticity. That's where arteriosclerosis comes from." The sooner hypertension can be spotted, the sooner something can be done about fighting it. Have your blood pressure checked. If it's high, you can be placed on the proper preventive program. Stay on this program.

The alternatives are possible heart attack, stroke or kidney failure. And that isn't much of a choice.

St. Clare students stage bicentennial spectacular

The Building of Our Nation is the title of a three act bicentennial play to be staged by St. Clare School at 7:30 p.m. Friday, May 7, in the Sy Rosenthal Gymnasium of St. Augustine's Seminary, Bay St. Louis.

Uncle Sam, played by Nancy Toomey, will lead a present day student, Vickie, portrayed by Anne Tassin, through a series of pageant-type scenes, each displaying a different period in U.S. history.

Act One will trace the nation's beginnings - from Columbus through the American Revolution. Act Two deals with the era from the signing of the Declaration of Independence to the Civil War. Act Three involves the important events of the last 75 years.

Students from every grade are scheduled to take part and will display their talents through dancing, singing, choral readings, recitations, and characterizations.

Advanced tickets, available at the school, are $1.25 for adults and 50 cents for students. General admission at the door will be available also for $1.50 and 75 cents.

Bicentennial players

show; General Andrew Jackson, Mark Zitterkopf.

Social Security notes

Inquiries are required yearly for recipients

People getting supplemental security income (SSI) payments should not feel they're being singled out for investigation when they're contacted during the year by social security representatives, according to Charles F. Wofford, social security district manager in Gulfport.

The supplemental security income program makes monthly payments to people with little or no income and limited resources who are 65 and over or blind or disabled. "The law requires that eligibility for supplemental security income and the amount of the monthly payments be redetermined once a year for everyone getting the payments," Wofford said.

"The Social Security Administration gets in touch with people to get information about income, living arrangements, and other factors that might affect their supplemental security income payments," he said. "This may be done by a questionnaire in the mail or by personal interview in the home or social security office."

People can get information about supplemental security income payments by calling, visiting, or writing any social security office. The Social Security Administration is an agency of the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

Social security representatives are glad to identify themselves, said Wofford. "They never ask you to give them money to have something done," he said. "It's their duty to help people - in any way they can - to get supplemental security income payments in the right amount."

"Nurses will have in their locale, opportunities for learning which have never before been available to them," Prof. Benjamin emphasized. She estimates that within six months a listing of programs will be available. When they are implemented, followup evaluation is planned.

Attendance at the learning sessions will embrace a voluntary program for Continuing Education Recognition, and continuing education credit will be given. These credits are not now in effect in the pilot projects.

When hospitals request this specially designed type of training, indicating their areas of need, nurses can work as a group or individually. This will allow an individual to pace himself, and equipment for independent study will be provided as well as materials for large groups.

The School of Nursing now has on hand considerable materials to be utilized in the project, including a van for transporting them. The equipment includes television monitors with player units; movie projectors, overhead projectors, slide carousels, and more.

These are the Marion County Hospital, Columbia; Covington County Hospital, Collins; Perry County Hospital, Richton; and the Jones County Community Hospital, Laurel.

USM to begin traveling workshops for nurses

HATTIESBURG - If the mountain won't come to Mohammed, then Mohammed will go to the mountain. This in brief is the philosophy behind a project conceived by Elizabeth G. Benjamin, chairman of the Department of Continuing Education in the University of Southern Mississippi's School of Nursing.

"There are many registered nurses working in small hospitals over the state who for one reason or another cannot come to the university-held workshops," she points out.

Operating with a $714,163 grant from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, the school is in process of perfecting a delivery system for knowledge and training materials that will upgrade the professional skills of these nurses.

The first such program in the state, it aims to increase the knowledge and skill competencies of nurses, establish the delivery system for this upgrading, and establish a "bank" for training resource materials, to draw upon as needed.

Shannon Graham, assistant project director, points out there will be no fee for this training as it becomes available. "Hospitals will ascertain their own needs, and just ask for the assistance," she said.

Hanks of Indiana U, joins Rebels as scout, recruiter

UNIVERSITY - Ole Miss Athletic Director John H. Vaught announced Friday the addition of Mike Hanks, graduate assistant coach at NCAA Champion Indiana University, to the Rebel basketball staff as a fulltime assistant coach.

The 23-year old Hanks has worked with both Indiana Coach Bobby Knight, and recently named Rebel Head Coach Bob Weltlich, during 1975-76.

Hanks' appointment was approved Thursday by the University's Committee on Athletics and the Board of Trustees of Institutions of Higher Learning.

A native of Quincy, Illinois, the new coach was graduated last May from Southern Methodist University, where he played guard for three years for the Mustangs, and earned a BAS degree in physical education and history.

While at SMU, he served as a student-assistant coach and assisted in scouting and recruiting.

At Indiana, under Knight, Hanks had regular coaching duties, assignments, plus during the summer months, basketball camp staff duties. Hanks played for his father, Sherrill Hanks, Illinois' most successful active prep basketball tutor, in high school, rating All-State honors in his senior season. He served that year as team captain and set a school record with more than 200 assists in his last two years.

At Ole Miss his primary duties will be scouting and recruiting.

Ole Miss sports program lists golf, baseball, tennis

UNIVERSITY - Baseball in a single series, a lone tennis match and entry in the Jim Corbett Invitational over the weekend for the Rebel golfers, make up the week's sports calendar for three Ole Miss teams.

Coach Jake Gibbs' baseball outfit, on the rebound following a slow start, hosts LSU's Bayou Bengals in three games Monday and Tuesday.

Coach Junie Hovious' Rebel

netmen, completing one of their best seasons in history, were 13-4 into weekend action here Friday with Samford, and Saturday with Southern Mississippi. Their most recent victim was Delta State in a 9-0 sweep Thursday at Cleveland.

Memphis State claimed a 5-4 match here April 7 and Hovious' crew will be hustling to break even on the season. The encounter with the Tigers winds up scheduled matches for the Rebels, who complete their campaign May 13-15 in the annual SEC tournament at Auburn, Ala.

Coach Ray Poole's Reb golf team will bid for a strong finish in the tourney sponsored by LSU. Last year's slot was fifth and the best showing ever by a Rebel team in the Tiger invitational was second in 1974. The three-day meet ends Sunday.

In baseball, sporting a 5-10 record in the Western Division of the Southeastern Conference, the Rebs faced Alabama in Tuscaloosa last Friday and Saturday and needed a sweep there to stay in contention for the 1976 divisional title.

In 28 games the overall record was 12-15-1 and seven of the losses were one-run games. The Rebs cornered Auburn there last weekend and claimed two of three decisions from the Plainsmen in 3-1, 2-5, and 9-2 games.

Against LSU March 28-29 in Baton Rouge, Ole Miss rallied to take the final game of the series, 4-2, after losing the Friday night twin bill, 5-3 and 4-0.

Gibbs' team faces an extended schedule break following the three-game series with LSU, closing out regular campaigning here May 7-9 with three games against Mississippi State.

The April 28-May 2 Rebel sports schedule: Monday - Baseball, LSU, Campus (2-1:30); Tennis, Memphis State, Memphis, 2-4:30 p.m.; Tuesday - Baseball, LSU, Campus (2:00); Friday, Saturday, Sunday - Golf, Jim Corbett Invitational, Baton Rouge.

Oak Downs record falls for third week

(Special to The Echo)
PEARL RIVER, La. — The meet record for five furlongs was broken Sunday at Oak Downs for the third straight week.

This time it was a horse by the name of Rocky Harris that is owned and trained by a horseman of the same name that cracked the mark.

Rocky Harris, the horse, was timed in 1:03.445 in the sixth race. The previous best mark for the distance was 1:03.59, set the week before by Nannies Nat.

Rocky Harris, the horseman, is second in Oak Downs trainer standings with 16 victories during the 1976 meet. Merlin Marchal leads the trainers with 19 wins.

Best performance of the day for quarter horses was turned in by Go Bill Bars with a Class AA clocking of 18.59 seconds in capturing the 350-yard 12th race against Missy's Filly.

Missy's Filly, a Hancock County campaigner, was timed in 18.68 seconds.

In the closest race of the day, Jackson Creek nipped Go Genny Go by a nose over a distance of 400 yards. The winner was caught in 21.45 seconds while the second place horse crossed the finish line in 21.42 seconds.

Sunday's results:
1) 350 yards, Tommy's Love Bug, 18.15 seconds, Allen Wiseman, owner, Merlin Marchal, trainer; Charlie Silkwood, jockey. Louisiana Woman, 19.66. Silver On Gold, 19.96.

2) 6 furlongs, Barroco, 1:18.45, Harold Baudy, owner and trainer; Randy Leidecker, jockey. Blazing Bill, 1:18.82.

3) 400 yards, Jackson Creek, 21.45, Welton Beverly, owner and trainer; Dennis Ory, jockey. Go Genny Go, 21.42.

Some timber losses may be deductible

JACKSON, Miss. — Severe weather during the last few days of March caused damage to timber in several counties in Mississippi, and taxpayers who sustained a loss in timber possibly may claim a deduction on their Federal tax return.

recently bought a tract of land that had timber on it ready to be cut.

Persons who lost timber may need to consult their local forester or a private consultant in order to determine the exact amount of their loss, which generally is the decrease in fair market value of the timber. However, a tax deduction is limited to the lesser of your basis or decrease in fair market value.

Any compensation by insurance or sale proceeds from damaged timber must be considered in determining the loss. As a result, taxpayers who have a very low basis in damaged timber may find that they have a gain instead of a deductible loss.

Christ Episcopal stages 25th annual Spring Festival

Students from Christ Episcopal Day School staged the 25th Annual Spring Festival Saturday at the school grounds in Bay Saint Louis.

They were joined in their pageantry by their parents, by friends of the school and by interested bystanders who wandered in off the nearby beach. They all joined together to carry out the festival theme of "Celebrate '76."

The festival included bits of Americana including speeches by the Statue of Liberty and a lampoon on the Bicentennial minutes. One of the special attractions of the afternoon was a line of bathing beauties preparing to be future Miss (or MS.) Americas.

The annual affair is put on by the students of Christ Episcopal Day School from nursery age on up to 6th grade students. Its purpose is to entertain and to help defray some of the expenses of running the school.

KANTCHA KETCHUM

By L.S. (Dec) Elliott

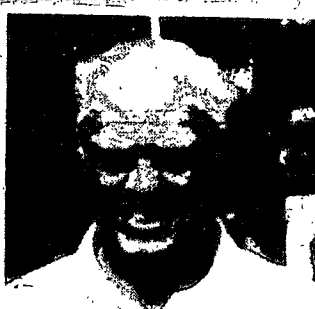

The weather has been ideal for the past week for fishing, crabbing, floundering, golf, or whatever the sports fan wanted to do, could be done. Not too many salt water fish were caught but bass and perch were being hooked most everywhere. For us fly and casting fishermen it has been excellent - where clear water was found.

Out in the marshes speckles are doing pretty good. In our lakes and bayous bass and perch are being caught by both fly fishing and casting. Pearl River is clearing gradually. Won't be long before we will have some good fresh water fishing in both Pearl and its tributaries.

Hard crabbing and soft crabbing are improving. Had reports that soft crabs have been caught out front on a low tide. The best spots for getting them are along the beach out front from the Highway Bridge to Bayou Cadet - such places as in front of St. Stanislaus College, bottom of St. Charles St., in front of Gulfside, in front of Coleman Avenue, and from Jackson Ridge to Bayou Cadet. They can also be caught down Cedar Point way. Flounders can be gotten in the same places on both falling and rising tides. These sports give us something to do at night time. Try it, you will like it.

Enjoyed Easter dinner with Mrs. Ed Ortte, Russell and Marion and their families. An egg hunt was the main attraction for the small fry.

Also with us was Mannie Levy from New Orleans whose hobby is playing gin rummy. Of course Mrs. Levy was also present. Mannie is from New Orleans but comes to the Bay quite often.

casting. Gets his share of fish, too.

Pat and Mary Jo Haggerty surprised us by coming over for the weekend. They both love fishing and will be back they said.

Bob and Mable Seely visited Clayton Seely last weekend. They were mingling with friends. They are from New Orleans but come over quite often. Bob enjoys his fishing too.

Sportsman of Week - Harry Roman is an all around fisherman and hunter. During hunting season he is often out searching for dove and quail, switching to salt water fishing when the finches are running. Harry is owner of a fine set of hunting dogs.

Had Ronnie and Kathy Bretz, my grandchildren, with Dan Haggerty, III and Mr. and Mrs. Gary Calico and son Kelly as guests last week. They came over to go soft crabbing. Winds were too high, as was the tide. Had a barbecue supper instead. Try it again, folks.

Dan B. Haggerty, June, Eileen, Bridget, and Georgia were my guests over the weekend. We fished and crabbed and played bingo; boiled crabs and had fish dinners. They were enjoying vacation time. Always glad to have my folks over.

Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Foster from Memphis, Tenn. are down for their annual trip. They both like fishing and did some while here. Cliff is mostly a fresh water fisherman doing both fly fishing and Kern "Little" Pete Strong with Sam Pappa, Jerry Cole and B.R. Mitchell caught 36 speckle trout Saturday at Half Moon. They said they were of nice size and the water was good. These men all are good fishermen.

Gene E. Domain and a fishing partner caught 49 speckle trout averaging from 1 to 4 1/2 lbs. over the weekend at North Shore. They were using Speck-A-Go-Go and split tail baits. Gene said it was a lot of fun catching them. He goes regularly. Domain is from Waveland.

Jody and "Poco" his dog come over from Columbus, Miss. to visit his grandfather, Pete Strong. Jody is a young fisherman and takes after his uncle, Kermit. "Kermit and Jody really take them in," said Pete. Pete does a lot of fishing himself.

June Haggerty with her daughters, Eileen, Bridget, and Georgia, got enough crabs to make gumbo for the whole family this weekend. They did some fishing, too.

Mr. Cliff Foster who is down from Memphis has been enjoying fishing from the American Legion Pier. Says it is a fine place from which to fish.

JORDAN RIVER CLASSIC - Mother Nature did her share to contribute to the excitement of the regatta by providing the sailors with a little bit of everything - strong, gusty southerly winds for Saturday's race, thunderstorms during the night, light northerly breeze for Sunday's race with occasional pockets of calm in the wrong places.

Peter Gambel with Larry Taggart crewing won the Open Flying Scot Class. Bobby Eagan finished second with Blaine Coward and Corky Hadden as crew. Gene Walet was third with Sheila Walet and Jim Schmidt crewing.

Dennis Stieffel won the Junior Sunfish Class over second place Gigi Staehle. Heavy winds on Saturday at the time of the first race discouraged the other Junior Sunfish sailors from participating.

ED TURNIPSEED was the winner in the Senior Sunfish Class, with Bobby Kileen second and Walter Chamberlain third.

RAY STIEFFEL won the Portsmouth Class in the Gulf Coaster. Walter Gehrke, Jr., was second and Lloyd DeFolice finished third.

Basil Kennedy did a splendid job as overall regatta chairman. The members and guests were able to enjoy the yacht club hospitality to the fullest - dinner Friday night, coffee and doughnuts in the morning, po-boys for lunch, dockside barbecue after the race Saturday, followed by Bail the Bilge with piano and banjo entertainment.

Dick and Jean Reeves conducted the races from their sloop CEELY.

Buccaneer Crew Notes

The Governor's Fourth Annual Youth Fishing Rodeo is to be staged on Saturday, May 29, here at Buccaneer State Park in Waveland.

Registration forms for youths from 5 to 15-years-old will soon be available at the park, a spokesman said. Prizes will be awarded on the basis of the biggest fish by weight, and the most fish caught.

More information will be forthcoming on this event as we get closer to the "Big Day."

Darrell Hayden of Pass Christian won the Pirate Sword award for capturing first place in the basketball free throw contest last Saturday. Jay Woodfin of Waveland came in second, and will have a photograph put up on the Recreation Hall bulletin board, along with Darrell.

Cancer tournament draws players

The second annual Cancer Crusade Doubles Tennis Tournament at Gulf Hills Inn Racquet Club has approximately 60 teams signed up to play in either the men or women's division.

Tournament play for both divisions will begin Saturday morning at 9 a.m. according to Bob Stock, pro at Gulf Hills and tournament director. Balls will be provided at no charge.

Sponsors and players are invited to a social hour after the last round of play on Saturday at Gulf Hills.

Stock said that the public is invited to come and watch the tournament. Finals will be played Sunday afternoon about 1:30 p.m.

Prior to the final round of play there will be an exhibition game featuring WVM radio disc jockeys, Lance Carson and Jim Bailey, playing against Mrs. Joe Meadows and Mrs. Charles Klumb.

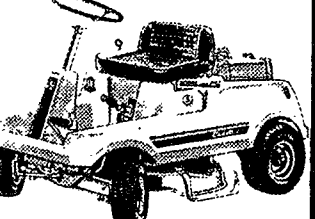

Other winners on Saturday included Karen Ross from Pascagoula, a first in bubble gum blowing.

Charles Warner, a senior citizen from Leesburg, Fla., topped the ping-pong score sheet, handily defeating 10 strong contenders.

Rev. P. J. Paramore of the Assembly of God Church in Bay St. Louis conducted a non-denominational church service Sunday morning, and in the afternoon Buccaneer staged a sand castle contest. Skelly and Frank Gancarcik of Harahan, La., took first place honors here with a "drip" castle that looked much like the Central European Gothic structures that guarded the River Rhine.
